What is your background and education?

"I'm the vice president and chief privacy officer at Intel Security. I'm responsible for the code to QA to value. I have a law degree from Fordham University School of Law and a bachelor's degree with university honors from Ohio State University. This spring I will be teaching an introduction to Privacy Engineering course at INI, Carnegie Mellon."

Can you describe some of the services Intel Security provides?

"McAfee is now part of Intel Security. With its innovative approach to hardware-enhanced security, and unique Global Threat Intelligence, Intel Security is intensely focused on developing proactive global security solutions and services that protect people, systems, networks, and mobile devices. Intel Security combines the experience and expertise of McAfee with the proven performance of Intel to make security an essential ingredient in every architecture and on every computing platform."

eer in computer security?

is valuable in and of itself: culturally, protected and respectfully shared is a beautifully complex challenge that welcomes passion and expertise from many angles. If you are fantastic at imagining how to play with really big prime numbers, draw your sword and take your seat at the security round table. We are waiting for you. The bottom line is that anyone with an interest in how we move forward as a world of information filled with almost endless possibility, in a safe and ethical fashion, can help us build the future as part of the security and privacy industry."
